OUR PILLARS

EDUCATION

Rwanda's unwavering commitment to transitioning into a knowledge-based economy underscores the pivotal role of education. Education is recognized as a cornerstone in the pursuit of cultivating a highly skilled workforce capable of regional and global competitiveness. The focus is dedicated to fostering early childhood development, empowering youth and women with vocational skills, and promoting lifelong learning and employment opportunities.

Furthermore, endeavors encompass enhancing financial literacy and providing comprehensive training in personal finance management, budgeting, and investing, with the ultimate goal of elevating living standards and reducing income inequality.

To bridge the skills, gap upon entry into the workforce, specialized technical and vocational skills training programs are offered through TVET, in addition to emphasizing STEM education to equip Rwandan youth with the indispensable competencies required to thrive in today's digital and interconnected world.

We believe in embracing manageable risks, learning from setbacks, and exhibiting the resilience to persevere.

ENVIRONMENTAL CONSERVATION

The unwavering commitment to environmental conservation involves collaboration with strategic partners. Together, measures are implemented to mitigate pollution, reduce the carbon footprint, and minimize waste. The multifaceted approach includes sustainable environmental management practices such as tree planting, initiatives for sustainable waste management, water pollution abatement, prudent management of water and natural resources, the development of urban green spaces, and the facilitation of access to renewable energy in rural areas through the deployment of solar energy solutions.

AGAHOZO-SHALOM YOUTH VILLAGE

IMPACT STORY

As part of the ongoing commitment of the Bank of Kigali towards quality education, in the academic year 2022-2023, BK Foundation proudly partnered with Agahozo Shalom, a non-profit organization committed to transforming the lives of young people. The collaboration aims to provide crucial support for students at the Agahozo-Shalom Youth Village (ASYV), fostering both educational excellence and a holistic well-being model.

Through BK Foundation's grant, ASYV witnessed remarkable strides in education. This year, a total of 64 students, 40 girls and 24 boys, received scholarship support. ASYV is committed to inclusivity, ensuring that no students leaving with disabilities are left behind.

ASYV's dedication to diverse education is evident in the distribution of students across different areas of study. Particularly, the current BK Foundation scholars, who are from the Intwari Grade, were enrolled in the STEM and Science Center. With the majority being girls, this emphasizes a commitment to equal opportunities and gender equality in the STEM field.

A robust plan is in place to ensure that at least 60% of future graduates will enroll in tertiary education within two years of graduating from ASYV, providing a path to a brighter future.

At ASYV, students thrive in extracurricular activities like sports and arts, promoting personal growth and teamwork. Active student clubs engage in competitions, enriching the school community and livelihood.

The LEAP (Life Enrichment Applied Programs) encourages passion exploration and community service for a holistic development. This program supports healing and personal growth by urging students to explore newfound passions through extracurricular enrichment programs, student clubs, and Tikkun Olam community service projects.

ASYV's Health and Wellness program prioritizes students' physical and mental well-being, including hygiene campaigns. This program delivers medical care and health education, empowering students to make informed decisions regarding their personal well-being and growth.

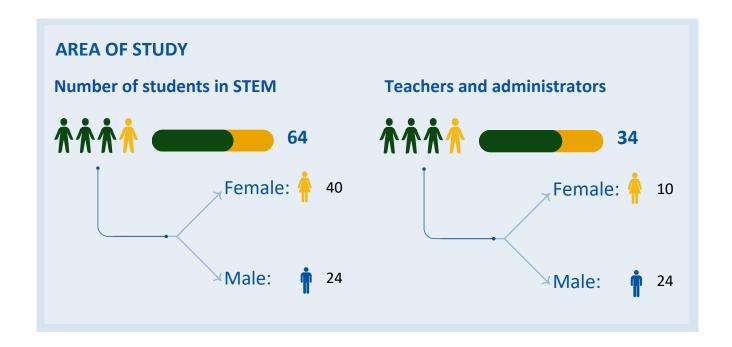

Through the Parental Wholeness program, ASYV fosters emotional support through discussions and coaching. This program area maintains a loving living environment on the ASYV campus, with a team of social workers and live-in staff members known as family mamas working together to provide students with emotional and practical support.

As a key partner of BK Foundation, ASYV aims to enhance its efforts in facilitating evidence-based decision-making to amplify ASYV's impact on the community they serve. Hence the provision of essential trainings in data literacy to its staff and the establishment of a Management Information System (MIS) database.

Teacher Development and Diversity:

34 teachers and three administrators underwent training, that included digital education and trauma- informed education. The commitment to gender diversity is evident, with ten women participating in the program. Teachers specializing in humanities, language and general studies, as well as mathematics, sciences, and technology, underwent tailored training.

UNIVERSITY OF KIGALI

IMPACT STORY

Through the Bank of Kigali, BK Foundation and the University of Kigali partnered to recognize and support best performing undergraduates' students. Demonstrating this partnership's commitment, the Foundation contributed to the University's 7th Graduation Ceremony. This support also included a full scholarship for a master's degree and four prepaid cards, collectively amounting to 4 million RWF.

What makes this initiative even more special is how the funds were allocated. A noteworthy sum of 2 million RWF was set aside to honor and commend four exceptional students through the Bank of Kigali prepaid cards, each valued at 500,000 RWF. This recognition not only celebrates their outstanding achievements but also provides them with a financial boost to further their education and aspirations. UMUHUZA IMPACT STORY

WICECEKA: EMPOWERING TEEN MOTHERS IN RWANDA

78 young mothers recently celebrated a significant milestone — their graduation from a one-year tailoring and hairdressing program under the Wiceceka project. This transformative initiative, made possible by the collaboration of Umuhuza organization and funding from Bank of Kigali through BK Foundation, is leaving a lasting impact on the lives of these resilient young women.

The graduation ceremony, held on December 13th,2023 was a joyous occasion filled with the cheers of proud families and children. Most of the graduates, all under 20 years old, received certificates symbolizing not just a completion of a program but a triumph over adversity.

These young women, who faced the dual challenge of early motherhood and limited education, displayed remarkable determination throughout the program.

Esther Niyomufasha, a standout graduate, shared her emotional journey. At 15, she dropped out of school due to pregnancy, but two years later, she chose to rise above her circumstances and joined the Wiceceka program.

Esther's story resonated with many, highlighting the power of a second chances when synergies are created within communities through the unwavering support of a family and different stakeholders.

The Impact speaks volume about the core program's success is the 78 graduates, who are equipped with valuable TVET skills, ready to enter the workforce with newfound confidence. The impact goes beyond individual transformation; it contributes to the broader societal progress that BK Foundation values.

PAROISSE RUTONGO IMPACT STORY

In 2020, the World Bank reported that Rwanda faced a challenge with adolescent pregnancies, with approximately 48 births per 1,000 adolescent girls aged 15-19. The most recent Rwanda Demographic Health Survey (RDHS 6) revealed that 5% of girls aged 15-19 had already started their journey into motherhood: 4% had given birth, and 1% were expecting their first child. In response to this issue, a collaborative effort between the Bank of Kigali through BK Foundation and the Paroisse Rutongo has yielded significant positive outcomes.

Through this partnership, we have empowered a total of 106 teen mothers with both economic skills and crucial life lessons, which include family planning and sexual and reproductive health education. This initiative has not only enriched the lives of teenage mothers but has also improved the prospects of young girls in the Rutongo community.

This program aligns with the national development agenda, aiming to address the pressing issue of teen pregnancy. Adolescents and young people face a range of challenges that hinder their overall development. Among this demographic, young women bear a disproportionate burden, with three out of every four new infections among individuals aged 15 to 19 occurring in girls, as noted by the World Health Organization (WHO).

Compounded by high rates of child marriage and sexual violence, these young women often face disruptions to their education and limited opportunities for personal growth. These circumstances expose them to risks such as HIV infection, early pregnancy, and childbirth complications, which in turn lead to lower educational attainment and a higher rate of unemployment among the youth in the region.

Through our partnership with the Paroisse of Rutongo, we are making a meaningful difference by equipping these young mothers with the tools they need to overcome these challenges, become financially independent, and improve their overall quality of life. Our efforts are helping to break the cycle of teen pregnancy and empower these young women to create a brighter future for themselves and their families.

CHEVENING IMPACT STORY

Since 2018, the Bank of Kigali extended its commitment to the Chevening Scholarship Program, aligning with the Foreign, Commonwealth, and Development Office (FCDO) of the United Kingdom. This partnership aimed to support outstanding scholars in Rwanda, providing them with the opportunity to pursue a one-year master's degree in the UK under the Chevening Scholarship Program.

As a testament to this commitment, BK Foundation pledged to sponsor one student every three years, covering the comprehensive cost for student accommodation, tuition, transport, allowances, and more. The tangible impact of this collaboration is vividly portrayed in the stories of six remarkable Rwandan scholars who have flourished under this dynamic partnership: 5 females, 1 male and 100% success rate in completing their degrees.

Kangabe Belise, Ronah Uwantegye Patricia, Joy Umulisa, Gloria Mazina, Christelle Kwizera, and Emmanuel Nshimiyimana stand as beacons of the transformative power of education. Their pursuit of knowledge spans diverse fields, from international finance to climate change finance and data science.

The impact is not merely academic but resonates deeply within the fabric of Rwanda's progress.

These scholars, driven by their acquired expertise, have become catalysts for positive change within their communities.

Belise, mastering Economics of International Finance and Trade, has equipped herself to contribute to global economic landscapes.

Patricia, navigating turbulent financial waters, brings her expertise in Finance, Investment, and Risk.

Joy, specializing in International Finance & Economics, is poised to shape economic policies.

Gloria, a master of numbers in Accounting and Finance, contributes to financial integrity.

Christelle, delving into Climate Change Finance and Investment, contributes to sustainable development.

Emmanuel, unlocking data secrets through a master's in data science, contributes to cutting-edge advancements.

The impact is not confined to individual stories but resonates in the broader context of Rwanda's development. This initiative has empowered these scholars to return to their communities as agents of positive change, armed with knowledge, skills, and a profound sense of responsibility.

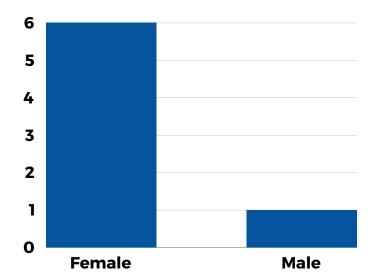

In reviewing the journey of these scholars, we witness a symbiotic relationship between the Chevening Scholarship Program, BK Foundation, and the scholars themselves. It is a nexus of support, fostering dreams, and cultivating ambitions that transcend academic achievements.

WILDLIFE CONSERVATION

IMPACT STORY

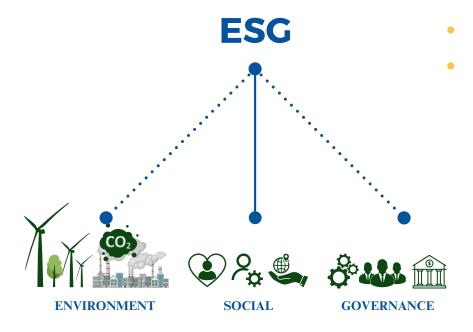

The Wildlife Conservation Initiative (WCI), a youth-led non-profit, partnered with Bank of Kigali through BK Foundation on a six-month project to revive the Mukungwa in the Northern Province in Musanze District. This project, "Integrated Restoration of Mukungwa River while Improving Local Livelihood," began with a plant nursery funded by a five million Rwandan franc grant. Indigenous plants, nurtured with fertile soil and manure, aim to combat erosion. Village workers contribute to the cause, finding hope and change in this green initiative.

The Wildlife Conservation Initiative created a revitalized ecosystem that not only supports the environment but also replenishes the soil, enabling the community to cultivate indigenous trees along the Mukungwa River. The project's impact goes beyond the riverbanks.

The Wildlife Conservation Initiative is actively engaged in implementing a project aimed at establishing nursery beds for indigenous plants. The goal is to cultivate 30,000 plants in the Musanze District, located in the Northern Province of Rwanda. As of now, 20,000 plants have already sprouted from the initial planting. An additional 5,000 plants are currently in the process of growth and are scheduled to be planted. Moreover, another 5,000 plants are in the seed nursery bed, awaiting normal growth before being transferred to pots.

SUPPORTING FLOOD VICTIMS IMPACT STORY

In May 2023, Rwanda faced an unprecedented natural disaster as heavy rainfall caused chaos across the country, particularly impacting the Western, Northern, and Southern provinces.

The aftermath was devastating, with lives lost, homes destroyed, and families left without shelter. In total, 14 districts were affected, leaving over 51,905 people in 10,381 families facing terrible consequences of the floods.
